Adriana Hoyos Brings Material Customization Focus to Spring Market

New upholstery fabric, quilted leather, ultracompact surface material and a wood finish

HIGH POINT, N.C. March 24, 2026– Adriana Hoyos Furnishings brings an extensive offering of new material and finish customization options to its High Point Market showroom during this season’s trade show, April 25-29.

The launch introduces 36 new inline fabrics, an exclusive quilted leather pattern, a Dekton finish for table tops, and a dynamic wood finish — further expanding customization options for the luxury brand’s furniture products.

Linking the new offerings is a focus on material innovation, performance, and a signature point of view from the eponymous collection’s key designer, Adriana Hoyos.

“Our goal is always to inspire creativity within the design community,” says Hoyos. “This season’s introduction of innovative materials is in response to the way designers are shaping spaces today, which is through their sophisticated application and layering of dimensional texture, tactile depth and visually interesting finishes.”

NEW Fabric Collection 2026

Adriana Hoyos Furnishings introduces a curated edit of 36 richly textured dimensional weaves. Fabric styles range from a refined bouclé and tactile jacquards, to modern geometric patterns and plush, high-performance constructions. Each material balances aesthetic impact with its durability features and benefits.

Developed with designers in mind, the collection offers versatile layering opportunities, elevated hand-feel, and a timeless palette for both residential and hospitality projects. Crafted to inspire texture-driven storytelling, the new textiles add understated luxury to any space.

NEW | Heritage Quilted Texture

Also new is Heritage, a vertically channeled quilted leather pattern with subtle X-shaped detailing that is exclusive to Adriana Hoyos Furnishings. Available as a custom application in all catalog leathers, it is produced inhouse by the brand’s vertically integrated manufacturing operation.

NEW | Dekton Helena

The ultracompact Dekton brand surface material is an ideal choice for dining and accent table tops, as it resists stains, scratches and cracking. The new Helena finish offers chromatic richness and fine crackled veining inspired by the natural beauty of onyx stone.

Available in an 8 millimeter thickness, its polished finish enhances light reflection, amplifying the material's visual dimensionality.

NEW | Pearl Finish

Pearl is a contemporary wood finish blending a soft, luminous white base with delicate caramel undertones. This interplay between the light background and warm nuances creates a subtle pearlescent effect to the primarily matte finish, adding depth, texture, and natural contrast that enhances the wood grain.
