Hickory White Expands Sanctuary Reserve Collection With A Fresh Take On Modern Traditional

HIGH POINT, N.C. – This April, Hickory White will introduce new additions to its Sanctuary Reserve Collection, expanding the whole-home offering first unveiled in fall 2025. Rooted in a return to traditional design, Sanctuary Reserve reinterprets classic forms through a relaxed, livable lens blending warm woods, refined materials, and timeless craftsmanship.

“Sanctuary Reserve resonated in a meaningful way this past fall; it struck the right balance of tradition, comfort, and livability that today’s designers and consumers are looking for,” said Chuck Auten, vice president of casegoods merchandising. “These new introductions build on that momentum, offering even more depth, versatility, and opportunities for customization while staying true to the collection’s relaxed, updated traditional spirit.”

The collection offers a complete range of living, dining, and bedroom pieces, crafted from oak solids and rustic oak veneers, with low sheen finishes, textured metal accents, and honed marble, creating a look that is both refined and comfortably suited for today’s homes.

Product highlights include:

645-61 Meggie Chest - Offering a softly refined look through oak solids and rustic oak veneers, the Meggie Chest feels familiar and inviting. Antique brass hardware provides a subtle contrast to the warm wood, while functional storage makes the piece adaptable. Designed for versatility, the chest works beautifully in a bedroom, living space, or home office.

645-30 Vanderbilt Dresser - Crafted from oak solids and rustic oak veneers, and accented by antique brass hardware, the Vanderbilt Dresser adds elegant sophistication to any bedroom. With practical storage space, this dresser is a natural addition to modern interiors.

8640-23 Swan Lake Upholstered Bed - The Swan Lake Upholstered King Bed makes an elegant statement with its softly shaped headboard and fully upholstered frame. Designed to balance comfort and visual appeal, it makes a beautiful centerpiece in a serene bedroom.

Sanctuary Reserve embraces the idea that traditional furniture can feel both timeless and current. Subtle curves soften architectural lines, warm finishes enhance the richness of oak, and carefully selected materials create a layered, collected aesthetic.

Customization remains central to the Hickory White philosophy. With more than 60 finishes, hundreds of fabrics and trims, and multiple customization programs, the brand provides designers with nearly endless possibilities for personalization while maintaining the quality and craftsmanship of American manufacturing.
