

Unique Kitchens & Baths Debuts Four New Designer Collections at High Point Market

Designers Kathy Kuo Home, Lindsay Laine Home, and Stephanie Wiott Interiors unveil their inaugural collections with the brand, while Jess Weeth, of Weeth Home, returns for her second collaboration.

HIGH POINT, N.C. — April 23, 2026: Unique Kitchens & Baths, a U.S.-based premium cabinetry brand known for blending designer-driven style with high-quality craftsmanship, announces the debut of four new cabinetry collections at High Point Market. The launches mark a significant expansion of the company's growing designer collaboration program.

Each collection features six distinctive door profiles complemented by a curated palette of eight paint colors and four wood finishes, offering designers and homeowners a versatile yet cohesive range of options. Consistent with all Unique Kitchens & Baths products, the cabinetry is designed and built in America and crafted from premium all-wood materials. Signature features include smooth, easy-to-clean finishes, dovetailed drawer boxes, and soft-close glides, underscoring the brand's commitment to quality and durability.

Designer collaborations are an essential part of Unique Kitchens & Baths' ongoing evolution. The company believes these collections give interior designers something truly theirs, offering pieces that reflect their unique aesthetic while maintaining the functionality and craftsmanship the brand is known for.

“Typically, once a project is complete, designers have to say goodbye to that space. With a product line, they have something tangible to continue supporting and sharing over time,” says Tanya Smith-Shiflett, founder of Unique Kitchens & Baths. “These collections also allow designers to connect with a broader audience, including clients who may not hire a full-service designer but want to bring an element of that designer's aesthetic into their home. Collaborations are an investment in both the designer and their brand. Kathy, Lindsay, and Stephanie are on incredible paths, making them a natural fit, and we were thrilled to continue our partnership with Jess for her second collection.”

At Unique Kitchens & Baths, the mission has always been to create timeless kitchens designed to be lived in and loved for years to come. What began as a shared passion for thoughtful design and craftsmanship has grown into a nationally recognized kitchen and bath design studio and cabinetry manufacturer.

Every cabinet is handcrafted in the USA with meticulous attention to detail. With an efficient timeline of approximately 12 weeks from design approval to delivery, along with complimentary blanket-wrapped shipping nationwide, the company makes fully custom cabinetry accessible to clients across the country.

Kathy Kuo's collection, Heirloom Cabinetry for the Gracious Home, is inspired by antique European craftsmanship, with traditional details thoughtfully reframed for modern living. Drawing from the refined silhouettes of historic doors and the layered elegance of storied interiors, the collection offers a fresh perspective on classic cabinetry. Each facade features subtle chamfers, graceful curves, and architectural beading, all while honoring the clean lines and quiet restraint that define timeless design.

The palette reflects the signature Kathy Kuo Home aesthetic, combining sophisticated neutrals, serene greens and blues, and the rich, organic warmth of oak and walnut. The result is cabinetry that feels elevated yet inviting, rooted in heritage but perfectly suited for contemporary living. Beautifully crafted and endlessly functional, each piece is designed to create a home that is effortlessly refined and enduring.

“I’ve always been drawn to homes that feel collected over time, spaces with soul and a true sense of history. Our Kathy Kuo Studio team loves bringing this layered feeling to life in every room we design. Partnering with Unique Kitchens & Baths allows us to carry that same eclectic, storied quality into the kitchen, creating cabinetry that feels like a cherished heirloom; thoughtfully crafted, deeply personal, and, of course, utilitarian.” – Kathy Kuo, Kathy Kuo Home

The Heritage Collection by Lindsay Laine Home The Heritage Collection by Lindsay Laine Home is rooted in timeless craftsmanship and a belief that the most enduring design begins with how a space is lived in. Each profile was developed through our work in real homes, where form and function are considered together, creating pieces that are as useful as they are beautiful.

Reflecting Lindsay Laine Home’s signature aesthetic of warmth, softness, and quiet luxury, the collection draws from classical architecture, refined proportions, and deeply considered detailing. Every element is designed to feel collected rather than styled, creating cabinetry that feels layered and entirely at home within its surroundings.

We designed this collection the same way we design our homes, starting with how people actually live and building from there. Each piece is meant to feel natural, useful, and quietly beautiful in everyday life.

“For me, cabinetry should never feel separate from the home,” says Lindsay Lucas, Founder and Chief Creative Officer of Lindsay Laine Home. “Each profile was designed from the perspective of how it would actually live within a space. I was thinking about how it would feel to wake up in that home, move through it every day, and live with it over time. The goal was to create something that feels warm, architectural, and enduring, something that becomes part of the story of the home itself. Collaborating with UKB was a dream come true because now we have the opportunity to bring to market the ideas not found anywhere else.” – Lindsay Lucas, Lindsay Laine Home

The Bespoke Legacy Collection is a thoughtfully refined cabinet collection by Stephanie Wiott, rooted in her signature balance of beauty and livability. This collection brings together softly nuanced color, classic door profiles, and enduring materials designed for real life. Inspired by the warmth of Midwestern homes, the romance of timeworn European tones, and the clarity of clean, functional design, each element was created to feel intentional, welcoming, and quietly luxurious.

Elegant silhouettes and a palette of muted, heritage-inspired hues provide a layered foundation that adapts seamlessly across architectural styles and lifestyles. Every detail reflects Stephanie’s belief that a home should be as practical as it is beautiful, crafted to support gathering, family, and the rhythms of everyday living while maintaining a sense of refinement that endures over time. Designed in partnership with Unique Kitchens & Baths, this collection captures the essence of thoughtful design: timeless without feeling traditional, fresh without feeling fleeting, and always centered on the feeling of home.

“With over two decades of experience in kitchen and interior design, I’ve always believed true luxury is where beauty and performance come together seamlessly. Partnering with UK&B felt like a natural alignment of vision and values, resulting in a collection defined by exceptional quality, thoughtful materials, and refined, enduring style. Together, we’ve created designs that elevate everyday living into a more intentional experience.” – Stephanie Wiott, Stephanie Wiott Interiors

In her second collection with the brand, Jess Weeth introduces a freestanding bathroom vanity line, expanding upon her existing collection, The Classic Coast. Jess’s freestanding vanity collection honors the details and craftsmanship of a bygone era. It builds on her first collection of door styles with considered, furniture-inspired detailing that brings charm and character. A chamfered edge, a perfectly scaled v-groove, the turn of a leg—these are the refinements that come to life in each piece. Every item has its own soul and can be personalized through an array of colors and finishes perfectly suited to the home.

Inspired by the romantic ease of an enduring house by the water, the collection draws on nuanced colors reminiscent of the sea, sand, and docks, with thoughtful details and classic proportions designed to stand the test of time. Weeth Home crafts homes with future generations in mind, and their approach to joinery mirrors that philosophy: beautifully refined cabinetry styles and hues that can be layered to create a forever home.

“It’s been really rewarding to get to have a partner in Tanya and the UKB team with such a high standard for craftsmanship and desire to get the details just right. As designers, we get told ‘no’ so often when it comes to customizing scale, moulding profiles, colors, and finishing details that will really tie a space together, and it’s been amazing to be met with, ‘Yes, we can do that!’” As a result, we have been able to create some really special but extremely versatile and classic door styles and freestanding pieces that can work well together in a wide breadth of homes.” – Jess Weeth, Weeth Home
