

FREDRICK RAMOND

A HINKLEY BRAND

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Hinkley Reintroduces Prestigious Fredrick Ramond Brand to High Point Market

As part of the Hinkley family of brands, we are proud to reintroduce our prestigious Fredrick Ramond brand to the design community at High Point Market this April. Featuring new lighting designs with hand-touched finishes, artisan-blown glass, and meticulously crafted details, Fredrick Ramond continues to expand our legacy of artistry, quality, and craftsmanship. As our customers' partner in statement-making design, our fixtures elevate interiors with glamorous materials and captivating visuals while offering the industry's highest caliber of concierge-style service.

OUR INSPIRATION

We seek inspiration everywhere, but especially in the worlds of art, unconventional natural materials, progressive architecture, and innovative craftsmanship. We understand that the maker is what makes our designs so remarkable. When exploring shapes, techniques, and materials, we are always thinking, 'how could this be applied to lighting design?'

OUR DESIGNS

Our pieces are designed to make a statement, and our customers understand that the materials and techniques we use are essential to the overall artistry of the finished product.

We have partners all over the world, which gives Fredrick Ramond a sophisticated, global feel. The artistry, quality, and versatility of our designs serve to inspire. From their opulent details to how they cast light, their splendor is apparent from afar and enchanting up close.

Whether you are selecting a chandelier as a focal point for a living or dining space or a set of sconces for an elegant powder room, our simply stated, intuitively crafted collections can serve as the jumping-off point for their entire aesthetic.

INTERVIEW WITH Lauren Lovett,
Hinkley Director of Decorative Product:

Tell me about the new additions to the Fredrick Ramond Collection. What do they add to the collection, and to Hinkley's larger product offering?

With the introduction of these more upscale, large-scale, and visually striking fixtures, we're strengthening our position in the high-end luxury market, offering lighting that transcends function to become artful, architectural statements.

This feature is part of a larger story on interior elements that can elevate the mood of a room. In your opinion, how does artful lighting help lift the mood of any room?

Artful fixtures draw the eye upward, bringing a sense of intention and curation to any space. By blending natural materials, hand-forged metalwork, and beautiful finishes, the right statement piece transforms a room into a reflection of artistry and design integrity.

What are a few of your favorite pieces in the new Fredrick Ramond offering, and what do you love about them?

I love the Anthos family – the delicate, floral-inspired petals are beautifully complemented by soft, feminine arms. The design feels effortlessly Parisian, exuding a sense of romance and refined sophistication. I'm also drawn to the Fantine family for its artistry – the layered, sculptural glass creates a mesmerizing play of light and shadow, casting a soft, romantic glow throughout the space. The light amber glass and rich brass evoke refined luxury, adding depth and warmth to any space.
